

Level: L2
Groups:04/05

Module: Research Methodology
Academic Year: 2021/2022

Teacher: Ms. Ghennai
Full name:

Second Term Quiz

Task1: Read the statement and write TRUE or FALSE. (03pts)

- 1- The researcher should avoid mentioning opposing points of view about their topic. False
- 2- Scanning every detail in the academic materials is the correct way of reading them. False
- 3- Information from a source that does not have evidence or argument should not be mentioned in the research. True
- 4- When taking notes from a source, it is better to use one's own language and style. True
- 5- The abstract of the journal article is a brief overview of the article. It includes even the method used, indications of the results and the obtained conclusion. True
- 6- The more the quotes the writer includes, the better the quality of their work is. False

Task2: Answer the following question. (02pts)

Why is Wikipedia considered an unreliable source of information?

Wikipedia is an online encyclopaedia that can be created and edited by volunteers. The authors are not necessarily researchers or experts. Therefore, information posted cannot be reliable.

Level: L2
Groups:04/05

Module: Research Methodology
Academic Year: 2021/2022

Teacher: Ms. Ghennai
Full name:

Second Term Quiz

Task1: Read the statement and write TRUE or FALSE. (03pts)

- 1- The researcher should ignore mentioning opposing points of view about their topic. False
- 2- Scanning every detail in the academic materials is not necessary when reading them. true
- 3- Information from a source that does not have evidence or argument should not be mentioned in the research. true
- 4- When taking notes from a source, it is better to use the author's language and style. False
- 5- The introduction of the journal article is a brief overview of the article. It includes even the method used, indications of the results and the obtained conclusion. False
- 6- The more the quotes the writer includes, the better the quality of their work is. False

Task2: Answer the following question. (02pts)

When might Wikipedia be useful?

As an encyclopaedia, it can be used to initially discover a topic. In addition, the list of references provided can guide students and researchers to central authors about the topic they want to investigate.

Level: L2
Groups:04/05

Module: Research Methodology
Academic Year: 2021/2022

Full name:
Teacher: Ms. Ghennai

Second Term Quiz

Task1: Read the statement and write TRUE or FALSE. (03pts)

- 7- The researcher should ignore opposing points of view about their topic. False
- 8- Scanning every detail in the academic materials is the correct way of reading them. False
- 9- Information from a source that does not have evidence or argument should not be mentioned in the research. True
- 10- When taking notes from a source, it is better to use one's own language and style. True
- 11- The abstract of the journal article is a brief overview of the article. It includes even the method used, indications of the results and the obtained conclusion. True
- 12- The less the quotes the writer includes, the better the quality of their work is. True

Task2: Discuss the following statement.

Popular sources such as newspapers and magazines are not appropriate sources of information when doing literature review. (02pts)

They are directed for the general audience, and they are not written by researchers and experts in the field.

Level: L2
Groups:04/05

Module: Research Methodology
Academic Year: 2021/2022

Full name:
Teacher: Ms. Ghennai

Second Term Quiz

Task1: Read the statement and write TRUE or FALSE. (03pts)

- 7- The researcher should avoid mentioning opposing points of view about their topic. False
- 8- Scanning every detail in the academic materials is not necessary when reading them. True
- 9- The introduction of the journal article is a brief overview of the article. It includes even the method used, indications of the results and the obtained conclusion. False
- 10- When taking notes from a source, it is better to use the author's language and style. False
- 11- Information from a source that does not have evidence or argument should not be mentioned in the research. True
- 12- The more the quotes the writer includes, the better the quality of their work is. False

Task2: Discuss the following statement. (02pts)

Not all websites can be good sources of information.

Some websites are created by amateurs, they are not owned by institutions or experts. Therefore, information posted on them cannot be reliable.